

COVID-19 Update - 18th December 2020

Last week we were pleased to welcome Members to our virtual EGM. As well as the usual EGM content we also broadcasted the Report of Activity video which included updates and key successes from across the business. The video was very well received, feedback included...

"I thought the EGM report of activities was absolutely outstanding. It worked because it wasn't perfect and there was a nice blend of human as well as work dimensions. It had the wow factor, well done"

The video is a great summary of the year, if you missed it you can view it here.

Last week OSRL won the Offshore Network Ltd, Best Example of Collaboration award at the OWI Global Virtual Awards. In this video, [update link] Emma Smillie, Global Marketing and Communications Manager speaks to Andrew Myers, Subsea Director about the award and why collaboration is so important for the industry. This week we were pleased to welcome Williams Shipping on to our Southampton base for an MCA level 2 training course. Extra precautions and procedures were followed. In addition, we also assessed our client's COVID related working practices to ensure everyone's safety. It was a real pleasure to be interacting with real people again although our remote training courses do continue to be popular.

We have continued to run internal exercises and participate in client drills both physically and remotely into early December, although these activities are now winding down for the Christmas holiday period. These exercises form a critical part of OSRL response readiness by demonstrating our continued ability to respond both virtually and physically in these challenging times.

We are continuing with our popular webinar series next year and already have two planned in January. Join us on 14th January to hear about the latest developments in Wildlife Response or on 19th January to learn about hiring, storing and maintained Tier One oil spill resources. We will pause Member communications over the holiday season unless there are significant issues to report, recommencing in January.

As always, we remain just a phone call away, ready to virtually support you and your operations. Should you have any questions, please email CMT@oilspillresponse.com or contact our Duty Managers.
